New York Credit Union Association

Young Professionals Commission Job Description and Credit Union Expectations

Commission Member:

The New York Credit Union Association’s Young Professionals Commission is charged with the development of strategies and practices that engage young professionals in Association initiatives and create leadership development opportunities for young credit union professionals.

- Members must be employed by a credit union that is a member of the New York Credit Union Association.
- Members will be aged 39 or under at the time of their nomination.
- Members will act to help ensure the sustainability and growth of the credit union movement in New York State.
- Members should have a strong interest or be currently engaged in credit union advocacy, outreach, education or volunteerism beyond their current job role.
- Members will participate in: conference calls, in-person planning sessions, NYCUA State GAC, Excel/Annual Convention, and other related Association and CUNA events.
- Members will commit to actively participating on at least one Commission project, including meet-ups, task forces, the website, and any new programs or projects that may arise.
- Members will support and participate in fulfilling the annual goals and strategic focus of the Commission which will be decided annually.

Credit Union Expectations:

By nominating an employee to the Young Professionals Commission, we understand there is an expectation the nominee will be required to attend conferences and events throughout the year (referenced above), and the credit union agrees to provide financial and scheduling support to allow Attendance and participation (at a cost of approximately $3,500 per year). There may be additional optional events, which we encourage participation in, that may have additional expenses. Professional Development Grants, from the New York Credit Union Foundation, may be available to cover some of the costs.

How your credit union can benefit from having a YP in your credit union...

-  Are motivated to make forward thinking changes
-  Share innovative ideas with management and learn about new technologies that help CUs thrive
-  Network with fellow YPs and promote the CU movement in their local communities
-  Feel connected as an employee, and become more loyal and committed to their Credit Union
-  Raise credit union awareness amongst peers
-  Become more driven to make a difference
-  Receive valuable educational and personal development opportunities
-  Collaborate with fellow YPs about attracting millennial membership and employment at their Credit Unions
-  Believe in the credit union difference!

YPs share their experience . . . What it means to be an Association YP!

“It affords a young professional the opportunity to be exposed to a variety of disciplines within the CU industry. It creates pride and a sense of belonging, as young people learn what the distinctions are and what sets CU’s apart. I believe it is retention mechanism to keep talent within our walls.”

“The Young Professionals Commission has really exposed me to the credit union movement. I’ve been able to see first-hand how individuals, specifically young adults, can truly make a difference in our industry. One example of this was our “Brewery Outreach Event” where we hosted meetups at local breweries. Not only were we able to promote collaboration among small businesses, we were also able to raise awareness of both the YP Commission and the NYCUA as a whole. Moreover, individual commission members had a chance to network and exchange ideas with other credit union employees, a mutually beneficial byproduct of every YP meeting/get-together.”

“Without being given the opportunity to get more involved in the Credit Union Movement through the Young Professionals Commission, I would probably have left my current job for other opportunities. Being a YP not only gave me great opportunities to learn and grow as a Credit Union leader, but it gave me a new perspective on what it means to be part of the Movement and live our philosophy of ‘People Helping People’ every day.”
